Workplace Injuries

Scott has over 30 years of experience working with WCB clients. At present, he is treating primary level patients and certified workplace ergonomics and functional capacity evaluations. We work as a team to help you recover from workplace injuries and return to work safely and as quickly as possible.

Clinic owner and physiotherapist Scott Anderson was involved in the first clinic in Regina outside of Wascana Hospital to treat secondary and tertiary clients injured in their workplaces.

He was also involved in creating the treatment provider policy and procedure manual used in the education of new treatment centres.

Additionally, he was involved in the first assessment team in Regina and helped create the reporting that has now become part of the assessment team review.

Currently at his clinic, Scott has an interest in treating Workers' Compensation Board (WCB) clients at a primary level.

He works to deliver a program of physiotherapy that will help you recover from your injuries and return to work as soon and as safely as possible.
